

therein without decrease in width or length of the material, feeding the modified material to a molding machine and then forming a container in the molding machine by stretching portions of the material away from the plane of the web against a resilient back pressure to thereby 5 retain the increased apparent thickness of the material.

References Cited in the file of this patent

UNITED STATES PATENTS

1,934,798	Gelstharp	Nov. 14, 1933	10
1,988,787	Fowler	Jan. 22, 1935
2,422,998	Adams et al.	June 24, 1947

2,444,420
2,531,540
2,660,761
2,719,564
2,797,179
2,815,161
2,853,222
2,856,323
2,891,280
2,911,681
2,917,217
2,942,301
3,024,154

Borkland	July 6, 1948
Smith	Nov. 28, 1950
Peters	Dec. 1, 1953
Schneider	Oct. 4, 1955
Reynolds	June 25, 1957
Kramer	Dec. 3, 1957
Gallagher	Sept. 23, 1958
Gordon	Oct. 14, 1958
Politis	June 23, 1959
Distler	Nov. 10, 1959
Sisson	Dec. 15, 1959
Price et al.	June 28, 1960
Singleton et al.	Mar. 6, 1962